

WILSON AND COX ARE "ABSOLUTELY AS ONE"

FULLY AGREE ON PARTY'S CAUSE

Announcement Is Made Following Conference President Has
With Democratic Candidates

MEET AT WHITE HOUSE

Nominee Said to Be in Accord
With Wilson's Stand on League of Nations

Washington, July 18. — Complete agreement on the league of nations question and unanimity in the party's cause was declared today by President Wilson and Governor Cox of Ohio, Democratic Presidential candidate, after a conference at the White House.

Meeting for the first time since the Democratic convention at San Francisco, the President and the governor, together with Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Vice Presidential nominee, spent an hour on the south portico of the executive mansion discussing the league and other campaign issues. All three afterwards issued formal statements voicing solidarity of purpose. None made any reference to recently-published reports that the chief executive and the Presidential candidate were "far apart" on the league issue.

Are "Absolutely as One."

The President declared that he and Governor Cox "were absolutely as one" in regard to the great issue of the league of nations, and that the nominee "is ready to be the champion of the honor of the nation and the secure peace of the world." The party's choice, the President added, "will have the vigorous support of an absolutely united party, and I am confident also of an absolutely united nation."

Governor Cox declared in his statement that he and Mr. Wilson were "as one" in regard to the meaning and sufficiency of the party platform and the duty of the party in the face of the threatened bad faith to the world in the name of America. He declared that he would give all his strength to the "promises made by President Wilson to those who sacrificed in the great war."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement spoke of the "splendid accord" of the President and Governor Cox and expressed the wish that every American could have witnessed their conference.

After the conference, the three party leaders had luncheon at the White House and Governor Cox and Mr. Roosevelt later conferred with several party leaders before leaving at 4:50 o'clock for Columbus, where they will arrive early tomorrow to meet Chairman Cummings of the Democratic National committee and attend the full committee meeting Tuesday.

The conference on the White House portico, held at 10:30 this morning, was said to have been devoted principally to a discussion of the league of nations.

The statement issued by the President follows:

The President's Formal Statement.

"The interview was in every respect most satisfactory and gratifying. I found that I indeed already knew and what Governor Cox has let the whole world know in his speeches, that he and I were absolutely as one with regard to the great issue of the league of nations, and that he is ready to be the champion in every respect of the honor of the nation and the secure peace of the world. Governor Cox will have the vigorous support of an absolutely united party, and I am confident also, of an absolutely united nation."

Governor Cox's statement said:

"From every viewpoint the meeting was delightful. The President was at his best, recalling any details inquired about as bearing upon the international situation and enlivening the whole conference with a humorous anecdote now and then in his old-time characteristic way. We are agreed as to the meaning and sufficiency of the Democratic platform and the duty of the party in the face of threatened bad faith to the world in the name of America. His thought is still of the war and the pledges we gave to those who sacrificed. One easily sees that, as the leader of the nation who asked for our sons and our resources upon a very distinct understanding and obligation, he is resolved that the faith shall be kept. To this his thoughts and his are dedicated. What he promised, I shall, if elected, endeavor with all my strength to give."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement said:

"I wish that every American could have been a silent witness to the meeting between these two great men."

Their splendid accord, and their high purpose, are an inspiration. I need only add that my regret in leaving my post under President Wilson is softened by the knowledge that my new commander-in-chief will be his wholly worthy successor."

No Attendants at Conference.

There were no attendants at the White House conference, but Mrs. Wilson joined the President and his visitors at lunch. The portico, where the President has received many visitors since his illness, overlooks the Washington monument and the White House gardens, which were flooded today intermittently by sunshine breaking through the clouds.

In a talk with newspapermen in the White House offices after his visit with the President, Governor Cox said Mr. Wilson had promised to "help in the campaign in every way that he could," but that he had not indicated details of his plans for assistance.

Asked how he found the President, whom he saw for the first time since the executive's illness, Governor Cox replied:

"In splendid condition, in most agreeable shape."

Governor Cox refused to give any details of his conversation with the President, stating that he regarded such a course improper. To a query whether he had gone over his two suggested reservations to the League of Nations, the candidate replied:

"We discussed the subject in a general way, the President knowing from statements I had already made what my position was."

Governor Cox said the newspapermen would have to draw their own conclusions from the formal statements, adding: "There will be no mistaking my position after my speech of acceptance. In the meantime you must understand how further discussion would be improper."

Prohibition Not Discussed.

The governor, however, in reply to another inquiry, said that he had no hesitancy in stating that the prohibition enforcement law had not been mentioned during the visit with the President.

Crowds lined the White House fences and gates to watch the arrival and departure of the President's visitors and cheered Governor Cox and Mr. Roosevelt as they passed. The President and Rear Admiral Grayson, the chief executive's physician, were on the porch awaiting the candidates. Dr. Grayson retiring after their greeting. The President was said to have warmly congratulated both candidates on their nomination and during their stay at the White House told many anecdotes of his European travel. The conference continued so long that Governor Cox was unable to realize his desire to attend church services.

Between his conference with the President and luncheon, Governor Cox and Mr. Roosevelt had a long talk with Senator Glass of Virginia, chairman of the platform committee at the San Francisco convention. The governor said they discussed the platform only briefly but that Mr. Glass told them of many interesting events of the convention. Both candidates congratulated the senator upon his ability as a platform builder.

Leaving the White House at 2:45 o'clock, Governor Cox returned to the home of his host, former Representative Ansberry, to meet Representative Flood of Virginia, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, and others. The governor took much interest in the campaign to return the Democrats to power in congress and assured Mr. Flood of every assistance.

Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state, also had a brief talk with Governor Cox, while another visitor was Robert W. Woolley, interstate commerce commissioner, who had breakfast with the Presidential candidate at the Ansberry home.

Accompanying Governor Cox and Mr. Roosevelt to Columbus were Mr. Ansberry, former Representative George White of Ohio, Thomas B. Love, Democratic national committeeman from Texas, and John F. Costello, committeeman from the District of Columbia.

Report of Bergdoll's Capture Is Denied

Philadelphia, July 18. — Widely circulated reports of the capture of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted draft dodger, who escaped from army officers here May 21, were denied today by government agents in charge of the search for the fugitive. Newspapers received telephone messages from city hall here last night that Bergdoll had been captured in an Atlantic City hotel, circumstantial details with the names of two well-known department of justice agents, being given. Efforts are being made to run down the originators of the false report.

DISMISS COMPLAINT.

Washington, July 18. — Dismissal of his formal complaint of unfair competition against the C. D. Kenny company, with main offices at Baltimore, was announced by the Federal Trade commission.

The record of the case, the commission said, failed to disclose evidence which would warrant a finding of facts to support the charges that the company adopted a policy of refusal to sell sugar to prospective purchasers unless they would also buy an equal amount of coffee and that customers were coerced into purchase of inferior grades of coffee at prices in excess of the market value in order to obtain sugar.

HARDING CALLS FOR COX VIEWS

Wants to Know How He Stands
on Foreign Policy Now Proposed
By Democrats

YIELDED TO WILSON?

Republican Nominee Demands
His Opponent Give Immediate
Statement of Policy

Marion, Ohio, July 18. — A bill of particulars detailing the foreign policy now proposed by the Democratic party was called for today by Warren G. Harding, the Republican nominee for President.

In a broadside of pointed interrogatories, the candidate challenged his Democratic opponent, Governor Cox, to say categorically where he stood on Article X, the Armenian mandate, and the other problems wrapped up in American participation in the league of nations.

Today's White House conference between Governor Cox and President Wilson, Senator Harding said, could not be fully explained by a statement of "complete accord." He declared the American people not only would ask whether the Democratic nominee had put Mr. Wilson in charge of the campaign and shouldered completely the administration's program of foreign commitments, but would demand to be informed also just what those commitments are.

Will Cox Answer?

"It is earnestly to be hoped," continued the Republican nominee, "that Governor Cox will frankly and honestly answer these questions because the Republican party wants the country to know it rejects all of these ill-considered commitments and pledges its administration made against them."

Senator Harding's statement was written while the conference in Washington was in progress, and tonight he had nothing to add to it. In the circle of his close advisors, however, it was militantly declared he might have a great deal more to say unless his questions were answered.

Senator Harding's statement follows:

"The President and the Democratic nominee for his successor are in conference today, and at the conclusion it will inevitably be announced that they found themselves in complete accord, that harmony reigned, and unity is established in the Democratic party. The significance of that announcement will not be missed. There is just one way that one can establish accord between himself and the President—that is by yielding his own opinion at every point to that of the President. When the nominee establishes accord with the President it means that the latter is in charge of the campaign and will be the real force of the next administration if it is Democratic."

Has League Been Accepted?

"Therefore, in connection with the announcement of harmony between the President and the Democratic nominee, it will be pertinent to inquire the basis of the agreement."

"The country is very anxious to know if an unqualified acceptance of the League of Nations program is agreed upon."

"Second, has Governor Cox pledged himself to ratification of the treaty and league without essential modifications?"

"Third, has Article X been accepted? It has been repeatedly declared that Article X is the heart of the treaty, and that to cut it out would 'break the heart of the world.' Is the Democratic ticket still for Article X?"

"Fourth, the President naturally has stipulated that Governor Cox must assume, underwrite and liquidate all the international commitments in which the present administration has involved itself and the nation. The President could not possibly demand less. A Democratic successor could not possibly grant less, because he stands on a platform that makes the same guarantees."

"It becomes, therefore, timely to ask: 'What are the various mysterious, uncertain obligations to which the President has committed us?' Somebody must tell us because the people are wanting to know."

"Has Governor Cox undertaken, in case he is elected, to renew the demands that this country take a mandate over Armenia?"

"Has he undertaken to maintain the administration's policy in the Adriatic, where we have well nigh forfeited the friendship of the great Italian people, by flight to Alaska?"

Held Up by Weather

Erie, Pa., July 18. — The four army aviators blazing a trail from Mitchell Field, Long Island, to Nome, Alaska, were forced to remain here today by a heavy thunderstorm and downpour of rain which continued until late tonight. Captain St. Clair Street, in command of the expedition, said tonight that an attempt would be made to make the next jump to Grand Rapids, Mich., Monday morning if weather conditions permit.

LEADING ATHLETES ON
U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM

More Than 100, Including Four World's Record Holders, Will Go to Antwerp

Boston, July 18. — More than 100 of the leading athletes of the country were selected to represent the United States in the Olympic games at Antwerp next month at an all-night session of the American Olympic committee which ended early today. In accordance with previous announcements, the selections were based almost entirely upon the showing made in the final trials at the Harvard stadium yesterday.

Every section of the nation was represented in the trials and the distribution of honors in the 27 events covers the entire country and includes a number of athletes from the army and navy.

Members of the Olympic committee and board of coaches expressed the opinion that the 1920 team was the best balanced and the strongest combination ever named to carry the U. S. shield in international athletic competitions. Four world's record holders appear on the list, J. E. (Ted) Meredith, D. F. A. Hearn, F. K. Foss and Pat Ryan. Two winners of first places at the Stockholm Olympiad of 1912 are members of the team, Meredith and Pat McDonald, the weight man.

LIPTON PLANS NEW PILOT FOR HIS CUP RACER

Is Dissatisfied With Former Kaiser's Young

in Two Races

BUT REMAINS CHEERFUL ONCE GERMAN "HERO"

Believes Craft Is Fine and That
With Good Wheel Work It Can

(By The Associated Press.)
Sandy Hook, N. J., July 18. — Sir Thomas Lipton plans to take Captain William P. Burton from the wheel of the cup challenger, Shamrock IV.

The decision to supplant Captain Burton as skipper of the Lipton sloop was practically decided upon at a series of conferences today of Sir Thomas Lipton, Captain H. L. Garrett, representative of the Royal Ulster Yacht club on board the Resolute; Charles Nicholson, designer of the Shamrock, and Colonel Duncan F. Neill, personal representative of Sir Thomas on board the Shamrock.

When the Lipton 70-footer is found at the starting line for tomorrow's race, either Colonel Neill or Designer Nicholson will probably be in command. Sir Thomas' choice for skipper of the challenger is Mr. Nicholson, who not only designed but built the Shamrock as well and is also a yachtsman of ability as shown in his contests in England. Whether Captain Burton and his wife, who sails on the challenger as the sloop's timekeeper, will remain on board the Shamrock after the wheel has been taken from the Gosport skipper, is not known, but the belief on Sir Thomas' steam yacht tonight was that Burton would not care to sail on the challenger under the circumstances.

Removal Is Unprecedented.

The removal of a captain from a yacht during the progress of an America's cup match is believed to be without precedent in the history of cup racing. Sir Thomas would not talk of Captain Burton's removal or of any of the circumstances bearing upon it, other than to say tonight when asked about the last two races that things were not going as satisfactorily as they might. Sir Thomas continues to say that he is more than satisfied with the design and sailing ability of his latest challenger.

That things were not going well in the handling of the Shamrock in the last two races was not concealed either on board Lipton's steam yacht Victoria, where Sir Thomas' associates and friends watched the races, or on the tender Killarney, where officers and crews of the challenger are housed.

Open admiration for the way Charles F. Adams has handled the wheel on the Resolute has been expressed on Sir Thomas' steam yacht, and at the same time it was observed that there was almost a concurrence of the opinion expressed in newspapers that Shamrock was not being sailed in a fashion to show her real ability; that in the starts of the races she has been completely outmaneuvered, and that the Lipton craft has not been sailed to windward as she might.

The climax in the situation came yesterday when the Shamrock lost ground because of certain changes in head sails during the first leg to windward. Here again Skipper Adams was complimented on the skill with which he hunted out the vagrant breezes and kept the Resolute moving while the Shamrock was continually in trouble, floundering hopelessly in oily soft spots where there was no wind and getting so becalmed that she fell far behind the defender.

Sir Thomas Lipton believes that the Shamrock IV is a wonderfully fine craft and that with good wheel work and a whole sail breeze it can defeat the American defender.

Lipton Remains Cheerful.

"I have never seen Sir Thomas quite so cheerful under the circumstances," said Lord Dewar on the steamship Victoria tonight, "though to change horses while crossing stream is always a doubtful thing. Last night after the race, Sir Thomas was joking those on board the Shamrock, saying: 'Did you really see the Resolute? Could you see her? You must have had fine binoculars.'"

Colonel Neill and Designer Nicholson are the most talked of on the Victoria to take the wheel of the Shamrock. Colonel Neill is one of the best yachtsmen in England, and was selected to sail Shamrock in these races when running before the wind. There was a suggestion that Captain Diaper, skipper of the 23-meter Shamrock, the trial horse for the cup challenger, might be chosen to succeed Captain Burton. The 23-meter Shamrock lies at her mooring near the challenger in the horseshoe. If Captain Diaper is selected to pilot the cup sloop, it is within the range of possibility that the new skipper may man the Shamrock with sailors taken from the 23-meter boat. Captain Diaper has a well-trained crew which has shown itself in the trial races with Shamrock off the white triangle of the Lipton craft.

The two cup yachts lay quietly at anchor in the horseshoe today and the crews remained at their quarters. A sharp southwester which sung in the

Berlin, July 18. — Prince Joachim of Hohenzollern, youngest son of former Emperor William, committed suicide today in Potsdam. He is believed to have been in mental straits. He recently was divorced.

Later advices say Prince Joachim shot himself Saturday while in his residence at Potsdam. He was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where he died a few hours later.

The Prince recently had been suffering from great mental depression. The only member of the former imperial family now in Potsdam is Prince Frederick, the former emperor's second son.

Prince Eitel, questioned as to the motive for his brother's suicide, declined to make any statement, referring the correspondent at the same time to the official announcement that Joachim was suffering from "a fit of excessive dementia."

The body was transferred to Potsdam chapel this morning.

Prince Joachim was the least talented of the emperor's sons. He held the rank of captain, but, according to statements now made, he was never actively at the front. He leaves one son.

The whereabouts of Prince Albert, Prince August William and Prince Oscar are unknown. The former crown prince is reported to be staying on Rugen Island.

Narrowly Escaped War Capture.

Prince Joachim was born December 17, 1890, in Berlin. He served during the late war on both the western and eastern fronts. During the first year of the war he was wounded in the fighting in France and for a long time it was feared that he would not recover. When he did recover, he was transferred to the Russian front, where he had several narrow escapes from capture and afterwards suffered a severe illness.

After the defeat of the Germans there were rumors that Emperor William would abdicate in favor of Joachim.

The prince was married in 1916 to Princess Marie Augustine of Anhalt who then was just 17 years old. A dispatch from Paris early in the present year said the prince had brought suit for divorce.

The prince during the war ranked as a popular hero in Germany. Since the end of the war, little has been heard of him. One report was to the effect that he hoped to come to the United States after the peace treaty was signed.

CHALLENGES WADSWORTH
TO DEBATE ON SUFFRAGE

New York, July 18. — George Henry Payne, who recently announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, made public tonight a letter to Senator James W. Wadsworth challenging him to debate the suffrage issue. Senator Wadsworth is asked to leave the decision of his renomination to the voters at the primaries rather than to delegates at the unofficial state convention at Saratoga.

rigging caused some comment among the men with a hope that it would continue tomorrow.

Ignominious Race Saturday.

Sandy Hook, Saturday, July 17. — Coquettish breezes, which later dropped to calms, this afternoon brought to ignominious close the second of the international yacht races, robbing of sensational victory the America's cup defender Resolute, which was unable to cross the finish line within the time limit. Failure of the wind saved from inglorious defeat the Shamrock IV challenger, which lagged miles behind when the contest was declared off.

From start to the raising of the "no race" flag the Resolute led by a big margin and clearly bested the challenger in seamanship, speed and all other marks of superiority.

The hard blowing eight-knot wind, which had swept the Resolute far beyond the reach of the challenger, faded to a thin puff at five o'clock. The sea, which had been scamed and puckerred by the wind, showed everywhere greasy, save in the places where it was dotted by cat paws and rilly waves.

It was with difficulty that the Resolute rounded the second turn, of Long Branch. The wind had, by this time, freshened in the vicinity of the Shamrock and as Resolute rounded, the white triangle of the Lipton craft loomed up, gaining in the distance.

The two cup yachts lay quietly at anchor in the horseshoe today and the crews remained at their quarters. A sharp southwester which sung in the

LEAGUE PACE SETTERS

DISPLAYING GOOD FORM

New York, July 18.—Good form is being displayed by the two major league pace-setters, the Brooklyn Nationals and the Cleveland Americans. The Robins, who have won 22 games in the last 25 by good pitching and timely batting, disposed of their near-rivals, the Cincinnati world champions, in the first two games of their series but today Cincy broke its losing streak and won from Brooklyn.

The Cleveland pitching staff appeared strong with the return to form of Caldwell and Morton, and the Indian twirlers, who checked the New York Yankee sluggers in the West last month, will try to repeat in the series starting next Wednesday at the Polo grounds.

Auburn, July 18.—Charles E. Courtney, so-called wizard of the Finger Lakes, who has coached the Cornell crews which hold every rowing record in America, died suddenly at his summer home at Farley's Point on Cayuga lake at about 11:30 Saturday morning.

Courtney had been out on the lake fishing and shortly after 11 o'clock he came in, leaving his boat and oars unattended, a departure from his usual methodical habits. He made his way to the cottage and went upstairs to the bathroom.

Mrs. Courtney noticed that his face was suffused, and to her inquiry he responded that he was ill. Mrs. Courtney then hastened for help. Upon her return the veteran coach was found dead in the bathroom. Dr. E. G. Fish of Union Springs was summoned and pronounced death due to an attack of apoplexy.

CUBS WIN FROM GREAT BEND

With Kibbe Pitching Masterly Ball, Weidman's Cubs Defeat Visitors by 2-0 Score — Best Game of Season.

Saturday Weidman's Cubs, with Kibbe in the box, put another game on the ice by defeating the Great Bend team 2-0 in the best game of the season thus far. Kibbe pitched masterly ball from the opening of the game, allowing only two hits, one a clean single and the other a fluke, and striking out 11 opponents; he never was in a tight hole and with one exception had air tight fielding to aid him. Boylan, in the fourth, with two already dead, let a third strike get by him and pulled Marone off the sack in an attempt to register the third out of the inning at the initial cushion. That was as far as the runner got, as the following would-be cloutier failed to connect with any of the assortment offered by Kibbe.

With the single exception of the fourth only three men per inning faced Kibbe, it being a 1-2-3 order all the way through. True, in the ninth Kibbe hit D. McDevitt with one of his deliveries and gave Great Bend a life, but the runner substituted for McDevitt was caught trying to steal second before the following hitter could get a chance to do a thing.

In the first Marone singled to short. F. Weeks hit just in front of the plate and when Kirby, first sacker for the visitors, dropped Holmer's throw, there were men on first and second with two down, and Oneonta fans had visions of running away with the game then and there. But it was not to be, Dempsey grounded, pitcher to first.

Oneonta's opening score came in the third. Duval hit a clean three bagger to the fence in right field. Baird and Marone both grounded out, Duval being scored on the first one. F. Weeks dead-headed to first, but was thrown out when Dempsey hit to short.

In the sixth, with one down, F. Weeks singled to left and went right on to the middle bag when F. McDevitt failed to handle the sphere properly. He died there, as the next two went out in order.

In the eighth Marone walked, stole second a little too strenuously and was tagged out before he could get back to the sack he had slid by. F. Weeks also drew a free ticket and stole second, being brought in for a tally by Dempsey, who singled to left and himself going to second on the throw to the plate. Tyroone hit in the air and was disposed of by Collier. Duba, batting for B. Weeks, was passed and Boylan hit to deep left for the third out.

MARKET IS GOVERNED
BY STRAINED CREDIT

What Exchange Lacks in Stribility is Neutralized by Brisk Bond Inquiry

New York, July 18. — Forfeiture this week of the greater part of the previous week's advances in the stock market suggested to disinterested observers that speculative conditions continued to be governed largely by the strained credit situation.

What the stock market lacked in stability was partly neutralized by an extension of the m.d.year investment inquiry for bonds, especially the new underwritings. Both the Swiss and Belgian government loans sold above their subscription prices. In addition to credit contraction, the market was put to a greater test by renewed signs of industrial uncertainty. Curtailment of production in textiles and leather made further progress, and trade authorities made pointed allusion to a probable let-down in the automobile and rubber industries.

Out-of-town banks made further inroads upon their local reserves, preliminary to the crop-moving period, but were a little more liberal in purchases of commercial paper. Cautious reports from principal centers of merchandise were offset in part by glowing crop prospects.

Latest commodity prices received from authoritative sources foreshadow another reduction of averages for June, although that month's index was slightly below the record of the previous month and considerably under the high peak of February.

The transportation outlook promises to become a more distinct factor as the time approaches for adjustment of wages and freight rates. With the opening of the presidential campaign, the labor situation is expected to assume new aspects.

Germany's submission to the terms of the Allies at the Sp. conference created scarcely a ripple on the surface of the foreign exchange market.

COUNTY POPULATION DECREASES

Census Figures Give Otsego 46,200, a Loss of 1,016.

An Associated Press dispatch to The Star from Washington, D. C., announces that the census gives Otsego county's population as 46,200, a decrease of 1,016, or 2.2 per cent since the last federal census.

The falling off is largely confined to the farming sections of the county where the number of children are less and where also there are many abandoned farms as compared with former years.

The figures are such as to give the best possible argument for liberal support of the Otsego County Improvement association, which is seeking to re-populate the farms and restore the agricultural prosperity of the county. No activity in the county is more deserving the support of all citizens than this organization. Oneonta has not responded as it should have done to its appeals. When the opportunity is presented bear the present condition in mind.

MEXICANS TIRE OF FIGHTING

American Newspaper Man Picks Up Interesting Information in Mexico.

CHANGE TOWARD AMERICANS

Correspondent Is First American to Visit Revolution—Slashed Republic After Fall of Carranza—People Want Peace.

Chicago. — Sidney M. Sutherland writes to the Chicago Tribune from Monterey, Mex., what he calls a disjointed tale of a journalistic pilgrim in quest of data in Mexico. It treats of the entry of the first American into the revolution-slashed republic since the roads were cut.

With passport in hand, I approached one Monahan, the guardian for Uncle Sam at the Laredo international bridge—that is, the Rio Grande—there's no bridge. Somebody burned the six-span steel structure ten days ago. They have built a pontoon nearly across the 200-yard-wide stream. Just now you're poled across in shifts.

Monahan looked at my passport and me, and told me to forget the Mexican consul's visa, as there are as many consuls in Laredo as there are factions in Mexico, and to proceed and to pray God to give mercy to my immortal soul.

I stepped from civilization to five centuries ago, to old shacks, narrow, filthy streets, to crawling, fly-doited beggars, to men in ratters, women in rags, and children in less than fig leaves. There is one tram of one-mile power, dozens of ill smelling, make-shift dirty saloons, and hanging like a pall over all the people and businesses, the "wish-to-God this thing would stop and we could get back to work" feeling. Every human expression more confidence in this regime than in any since old Porfirio Diaz departed.

And there is a new spirit toward Americans. Somebody—and one ventures to credit General Obregon with the idea—passed the order everywhere to defer to things American and cut out the nonsense. Obregon visited several American camps during the war and the Great Lakes to see the United States when we meant business and had stifled the pacifists. Everybody on both sides of the river told me no one could go South. So I jumped into a coach and was driven to the barracks where Col. J. F. Borquez commands the border between Eagle Pass and Brownsville and south to Monterey. I told him who I was and what I wanted. After officially informing me of Monterey's fall, he promised to comply with all my requests.

Obtains Safe Conduct. Telling me to return at 10 a. m. Friday, he dictated a safe conduct pass. It is the most complete document I ever saw and has worked wonders—I only hope I don't present it to the opposing faction and get shot during the confusion.

Borquez, voicing what all the other rebel generals have told me since, said solemnly and earnestly: "We're tired of fighting. Ten years of strife have sapped us until the last Mexican virtues—patience and forbearance—have been exhausted. Carranza would have had us in trouble with America, and we can't stand for that. We want peace and a chance to work. That is all. To get it we must be at peace at home and abroad. The rebel chieftains all rally to us because Carranza meant trouble, and our plan means the simplest program of all—peace and work."

What Carranza Stood For. "Carranza represented prothis and prothat political autocracy, personal friduity, private revenge and pure graft. You will notice the revolution swept most of the republic without a hundred shots being fired. That shows at once that Carranza was not what they wanted and what our plan is. Please be good enough to send only one message to your people—have a little patience and we will make the grade."

I was at the station at ten Friday. There was a water tank car, a flat car and a caboose made of a converted box car. Borquez and the director general of railways in the North—J. D. Rodriguez—were deaf to all suggestions to buy a ticket.

But did we start at ten? We did not. We left at three in the afternoon. They had just one engine at Nuevo Laredo, the most important northern port of Mexico, and that one engine would not work. They filled it with water and oil and surrounded it with profanity and finally with twenty scalded native workers secured by a local and an improvised draft act we limped away. I use the word limped advisedly. There is not a wheel in northern Mexico that has not been dilapidated by Old Father Time and Kid Revolution.

Burned Bridge Stops Him.

After ten miles of horrible jolting and fearful heat we stopped. A bridge had been burned. Incidentally the Obregonistas who burned ten between Laredo and Monterey were trying to delay Carranza reinforcements to various towns and did not want to destroy more than necessary. This was evidenced by the fact that they wrecked only little culverts and not large spans. Most revolutionists think they are Germans in Belgium. We alighted. Instead of tearing in and removing the charred ties and twisted rails and building a new culvert the entire outfit sat down to think. They thought and thought. They lay first on one hip and smoked corn shuck cigarettes, and then smoked and lay on the other hip, thinking rapidly all the while. I took a picture then, mentioning that I thought they might do something. They thought that a snappy idea and immediately fixed the bridge and went on, only losing an hour.

Another Bridge Burned.

Fifteen miles further we stopped again. This time it was a burned bridge, and a temporary track was laid beside it over the shallow creek bed. Heavy rain of the night before had softened the creek bottom, so that the track sagged like Palmer's May day Red uprising. The crew got jacks, picks, and shovels and ran some big timbers lengthwise under the ties. I took a picture, smoked a cigarette, and thought: "What a long way to Mexico City and real news." They gave the signal to start—the Mexicans cheered for their favorite president, favorite bull fighter, patron saints, and favorite brand of beer. I stood a hundred feet to one side, watching the train through the camera and waiting for it to turn over. It did not, and my watchful waiting produced nothing.

Finally we advanced. That is, we advanced 15 miles to a place where they had removed rails and by burning had twisted them. We laid new ones on new ties and proceeded. When we reached Rodriguez, 55 miles from Laredo, it was seven o'clock. There we found an engine which had been derailed and overturned the day before. It had righted itself, and it hooked onto our train and took it back north, our engine and tank car continuing south.

I climbed on the narrow platform in the rear of the tank car and we went on.

We reached Lampasos at nine. I was immediately surrounded by armed rebels in a bewildering variety of raiment and escorted before Gen. Juan M. Garcia, governor-elect of Nuevo Leon and commandant of the army of the North.

My letter from Borquez produced the proper effect and I was told I might go south on the military train at dawn.

There were no hotels nor restaurants, and I was famished. The town is five miles from the station. I saw a lighted doorway several hundred yards away. I went over, found some women, and asked for food and shelter.

"It's American—and young." The women held a lantern up to my face and, exclaiming in Spanish, "It's an American, and young," they said they would do their best.

By the light of a smoky lantern they prepared and gave me the starboard thigh of a young goat boiled in grease, onions, and chili hotter than the hinges of the inferno. I gobbled it down with the appetite of a starved coyote and ate several flat cakes of corn pone and drank a glass of goat's milk.

Meanwhile a wrinkled, withered old relic of nine matrimonial engagements—and willing to go further—had prepared the war correspondent's couch. This consisted of one blanket spread on a narrow sidewalk outside the house. I looked it over and scratched my head, in which the "romg visitors" already had found breeding place.

His Bed Chamber Furnished.

I asked for a pillow and they gave me a small sack of corn in a pillow-slip.

I asked for a sheet and they gave me a tablecloth. I gave up—took off the Bill Hart puttees and shoes and lay down.

Just as I was about to doze off I was startled by a wild fusillade at the station. The women screamed and moaned. I rolled into a near-by gutter. It turned out to be our rebels at their third bottle of mezcal. I dozed off, only to be reawakened by a "cacha-lito de gas"—a little horse of gasoline—as the Mexicans call a railroad velocipede.

"El consul Americano," screamed several rebels.

I dressed and rushed over to meet Randolph Robertson, the liveliest wire in the American consular service in Mexico. He has taken dozens of Americans and British out since the last trouble began. He has smoothed over a dozen "causes of war" in the last two years. His station at Nuevo Laredo has more friends than any in Mexico.

He was bringing in two Americans. They ate fried goat and went on north, and I returned to bed and to sleep at twelve, with the stars close down over my bed.

Breakfast Is Served.

One of the native women awakened me at five with a cupful of coffee placed on the sidewalk by my pillow. I turned to get a cigarette and turned back to find the family parrot perched on the rim of the cup drinking my coffee and creating at me slowly in

From the story by Harold MacGrath, produced by Mayflower Corporation, who made the "Miracle Man," directed by "ALLEN DWAN," whose recent success, "Soldiers of Fortune," has been pronounced one of the greatest productions to date.

Lampasos Spanish.

At noon the military train with General Garcia started for Monterey. He kindly consented to let me ride. I crawled in the caboose and went to Villadama, where the first passenger from the North in ten days overtook us and we switched, arriving here at five with Robertson, who is on his fifth trip guarding American interests and who is taking this message North. On both sides of the road for a hundred miles to here are evidences of ten years' revolutions' destructions. Houses have been burned, fields are in weeds, there are no cattle, no land is cultivated, people are apathetic, dumb dazed, and hopeless.

But all have hope in this new crowd, saying, "If they cannot straighten it out, who is left?" The answer is, nobody of Mexican blood.

THE HELPFUL BOOKS.

Not very long ago the American Library association addressed letters of inquiry to a large number of men and women prominent in public life, asking them to reply to an accompanying query as to what single book in the whole course of a naturally extensive reading had helped them most.
 As was naturally to have been expected
 there was quite general agreement on two books—the Bible and Shakespeare. As for the former, alongside of the fact that it is the greatest com-pend of moral and religious truth which the world contains, there naturally went the further fact that the reading of it, and in a considerable extent the committing of notable selections to memory was an incident in the earliest and most impressionable days of the child memory. Clergymen and educators are practically unanimous in naming the Bible, and Dr.
 Finley, the state commissioner of education, says that he read it through twice with his mother, though she died when he was only eleven years of age and that he has read it from cover to cover at least three times in mature life.

The Bible and Shakespeare is a favorite coupling with many who have not thought it well or perhaps exact to confine their statement to a single book. Great playwrights and managers, like David Belasco and John Drew naturally decide upon Shakespeare, and the former calls them
 the library of great poetry and great truths. Arthur Brisbane for the editorial profession tells also of the impression Shakespeare made upon him
 in his boyhood days.

Getting outside these two books,
 which almost of necessity everybody
 notes, there is wide diversity of opinion, and the replies run from
 "Alice in Wonderland," and "Pilgrim's Progress" through gamut of poetry, essays, fiction, scientific and sociological works and back again. Mrs.
 James Lees Laidlow, who is a director of the League of Women Voters of New York city and is not unknown
 in Oneonta, thinks that Herbert Spencer and Emerson "hooked her mind into shape," and a prominent social worker gives first place to George Elliot's "Mill on the Floss." As for Thomas A. Edison, his reply is that his reading has been too largely technical and one-sided to permit a satisfactory answer.

These replies, of which there are several hundreds, are interesting, but one cannot help wondering if in every case the answer is definite and exact,
 and whether the writer is not in too many cases influenced by what he thinks he ought to have liked, and what ought to have influenced him, rather than what did. Moreover, there is often a wide difference between what actually influenced and what is best remembered, and it may be that the distinction has not always been carefully kept in mind. As matter of fact, again excluding the two great masterpieces, it by no means follows that the books earliest read had the most influence in determining character or occupation. If it were otherwise, how many there are who still vividly recall the dime novels of boyhood or the thrillingly impossible tales of Mrs. Southworth or Miss Bradton—not literature, certainly, but the perusal of which was not at all time wasted, if it really incultured a taste for reading?

This discussion of the helpful books is, unquestionably a good thing as a finger-post for those who have yet to have the way pointed out. But there are various definitions of helpful, according to what one's vocation in life is to be; and one need not by any means be cast down if his own selections or recollections should be far from any published list. If any book has inspired to better life and higher ideals, or has rightly determined one's vocation, then that was the best book, no matter how badly written or how far it was from being what the student calls literature.

Motorists Come to Grief.

A decided increase in motor-car accidents in and about the city recently were reported. George T. Rich of Hobart was proceeding out of Wall street on to Chestnut when he was struck by the Ford car of Howard Finkle of Sidney, who was going up Chestnut toward home. The cars were both badly damaged, although no one was hurt. Mr. Rich considered that he had good cause for obtaining damages, so he had the case taken before City Judge Huntington, with the result that Finkle was dismissed with the verdict of no cause for action.

Late in the evening a Ford coupe was coming down Main street from the direction of the post office, and the driver, not noticing the hole which the trolley company dug some time ago for the purpose of repairing the track, and as no lamp or other signal was displayed as a warning, drove directly into it. The car was not damaged, however, and, as soon as it could be started it proceeded on its way. This should at least be taken as a warning to the trolley company, for if more accidents should occur they are not apt to be of the kind where no damage is done.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS

The March of the Movie.

Mexico, we read in current dispatches, has decided to lift the heavy censorship from the movies and to foster the enterprise in every way.
 There seems to be no stopping the triumphant march of the movie stars.
 Not long ago we read that Devonshire House, the famous residence of the Whigs in London, had fallen before the cinema. The Alhambra and the Empire, famous music halls, are to go too. England and the Continent appear to be as wild for the screen as we are here. All doors are opening for it. Not long ago the conservative Vatican sanctioned the picturing of an important religious function. Great are the movies!—[Philadelphia Record.]

Utilization of Farm Water Power.

There are a good many farms in this country on which there are little or large streams of water which could be dammed, and thereby an efficient power plant created which would generate electricity. The subtle fluid could light the farmers' house and barns and as well run a buzz saw and a washing machine. It would cost a little more in most instances, but the investment would prove both profitable and popular wherever there is a stream which would make it possible.

Citizenship for Profit.

Belgian ship owners complain at methods of recruiting the American Seamen's union. Quite naturally, they blame the United States for the union's activities.

The Seamen's union has been sending out appeals to foreign seamen to become American citizens for the purpose of fully enjoying the benefits of American law protecting seamen. Belgian ship owners do not relish the idea of losing control of the crews.
 Hence the protest.

An American labor union inviting European sailormen to forsake their allegiance for American citizenship on purely commercial grounds is a humiliating spectacle for Americans who properly value their citizenship.

Mills Family Holds Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Mills
 family was held yesterday at the Case
 Miller farm on the state highway near Otsego. Thirty-three relatives, mostly from this vicinity, were present, a majority of them coming by automobile.
 All arrived in time for a bounteous dinner served in the early afternoon and which satisfied those who had become enured to this classification relating everyone present. The remainder of the afternoon was pleasantly spent in reminiscences and late in the day the enjoyable gathering broke up with many expressions of satisfaction over the success of the event.
 Among those present were Mr. and William Stone of Scranton, Pa.; Mr.
 and Mrs. Adon Brownell and children of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mills and his mother, Mrs. Louise Mills, of Albany, and Dr. and Mrs. A.
 H. Brownell, Dr. and Mrs. Morton E.

O'RYAN SUGGESTS PLAN FOR SOLDIERS' BURIAL

Would Concentrate into Three Cemeteries the Heroic Dead of 27th and 30th Divisions

New York, July 18.—Concentration of the heroic dead of the 27th and 30th divisions of the American Expeditionary Force into three cemeteries in France is suggested in letters received here today from Major General John F. O'Ryan, formerly acting commander of the 27th division.
 The 27th was composed mainly of men from the New York State National guard. The men of the 30th division came mostly from North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

General O'Ryan, accompanied by Colonel J. Mayhew Walwright and Captain George B. Gibbons, have been overseas for the last two months obtaining historical data in connection with the operations of the 27 division and to investigate the condition of cemeteries in which the dead of the division are buried.

Favors Three Cemeteries.

"To my mind the sentimental side of the cemetery proposition is quite clear," said General O'Ryan. "I think that the 27th and 30th divisions should have three cemeteries, the first Lijssenhoeck (at Remy Siding, near Poperinghe); the second at Bony, on the Somme, in the vicinity of the famous Hindenburg line; the third at St. Souplet on the Le Selle river, France, and that the remains of all men who lost their lives in connection with that is in the engagements leading up to or resulting from the Flanders operations, should be transferred to Remy. In like manner, all deaths connected with the battle of the Hindenburg line to Bony, and all related to the battle of the Le Selle river to St. Souplet. As remains are transferred they should be reinterred by companies and regiments, so far as possible, but no attempt made to disturb existing remains in the three cemeteries named. If the families of our dead could know what we know of this whole thing, 90 per cent would favor this plan.

"Large cemeteries are already established at the localities mentioned and most of the 1,968 dead of the 27th division and 1,629 dead of the 30th division have been collected there from the smaller plots, where they were first buried. The thought set forth is to effect a further concentration of remains now at smaller burial places as Abele, Duing, St. Emille, Guillemont Farm, Busigny or elsewhere, to the three principal cemeteries named. All of these were found to be maintained in excellent condition by caretakers of our own or the British Graves Service.

"Fenced enclosures are laid out in grassy plots with gravel walks between. A substantial and well-painted white wooden cross or an upright with a six pointed star (in case of Hebrews) marks each grave, almost all of which, in addition, have a small American flag and are planted with flowers.

"The War Department contemplates
 the substitution of a permanent stone monument of uniform design for the present wooden markers on American graves."

Urges Common Burial Ground.

Referring to the dead at Duing, the general wrote:

"For the most part, if not all they were wounded before the Hindenburg line and evacuated to the Casualty Clearing station here where they died and were buried. Having been parculars in the great battle, they should be buried on the line with their comrades at Bony and I hope their families will take this view and urge upon the secretary of war that all our Hindenburg line dead be concentrated at this wonderful cemetery. The losses among so many New York families at this place should serve to unite them always in the future. No resting place could be more appropriate for those who met death in this great battle than to lie together in this really beautiful cemetery on the sidewalk overlooking Bony, where there is a small Red Cross Rest House in charge of an American lady, Mrs. Lulu Frick Taylor, American cemetery. Bony parley Catelet, Anne, who will answer any inquiries within her power or execute any missions for the families of our dead."

The proposed policy of the war department for the concentration of all American dead in a few great cemeteries which would involve further transfer of remains to places with which there was no association in operations is strongly opposed by Gen-

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the Republican candidate for President.

FATAL CAR ACCIDENT

Miss Edna Cramer of Central Bridge
 Killed When Automobile Crashes
 Through Railing Near Delanson and Falls Upon D. & H. Tracks—Parents of Miss Cramer Seriously Injured.

Miss Edna Cramer, aged 34, of Central Bridge, was instantly killed and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Cramer, were seriously injured Sunday morning about 9 o'clock, when their Ford car crashed through the railing at the Duane bridge near Del-anson and fell upon the D. & H.
 tracks, 20 feet below, with the occupants buried beneath the crumpled car. Mrs. Cramer is at the Ellis hospital in Schenectady and Mr. Cramer is at his home, his body being covered with abrasions and bruises. Both are considered in a serious condition, although probably not fatally injured.
 Miss Cramer, who was driving the car,
 died on the way to the Ellis hospital
 in Schenectady, to which institution
 she and her mother were being conveyed in a motor car. The body was turned over to Undertaker L. H.
 White at Delanson.

Residents of the vicinity say the car was going at a moderate rate of speed. There is a dangerous curve at the bridge and the posts of the railing are said to have been rotten. The family were on their way to Schenectady to visit relatives. After the accident, Mr. Cramer walked around the scene in dazed condition crying for help. Mrs. Cramer with one eye badly injured was more self possessed and succeeded in getting aid. They were given first aid by Dr. R. A. Mc-Dougal of Delanson. Not more than 20 minutes after the wrecked car was gotten off the track a train passed the scene.

The accident occurred at the same place that a similar accident happened
 two years ago Saturday, in which three residents of New Berlin were killed.

What's His July Date for Bathing?

August Busch came down from Un-cas lodge to see what might be the cause of the disturbance. The Legion boys were getting prepared to drop him also into the water, but, as Mr.
 Busch did not seem inclined to beinge, they listened to the words of caution from Dr. F. J. Atwell, commander of the Coopersdown post of the American Legion, and August was spared a premature bath in July.

The Pressure Canners.

It is understood that there will be no community center in Oneonta this year for the use of pressure canners—no place to which fruits and vegetables can be taken and by payment of a fixed sum the work of canning done for all applicants. The canners, however, are understood to be at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, and doubtless arrangements could be made for their use by householders or groups of householders who desire to do their own canning with them. It has been suggested that as the capacity of the canners is greater than in general single families would need, the group system, by which several near-by families could cooperate, would work to advantage.

A Little Blaze on Chestnut Street.

At about 8:45 o'clock Saturday evening an alarm of fire from Box 55 took the department in quick time to 308 Chestnut street. The fire, which was located in the house of Clarence Otto, had apparently caught from the gas stove in the kitchen, and when discovered the woodwork in that part of the room was ablaze. The neighbors, however, had the fire under control before the department could reach the spot.

Outside of the kitchen, the loss was principally caused by smoke, which did considerable damage. The house is owned by Lester Culver and is insured.

Don't Monkey With the Legion.

Especially if you were pro-German and continue to shoot off your mouth and make insulting remarks about the conduct of America during the war. At the outing of the American legion boys at Cooperstown, last Thursday, a chap told this out. When the boys gave him a black eye and ducked him in the lake. Served him right. Bully for the Legion boys. Go to it and I'm also helping, by aiding children, women and little fellows to safely make small amounts roll up to millions of dollars for homes and farms and make rent money pay for them, so that they'll get enough pep into them to help the Legion boys to duck chaps who shoot off their mouth about foreign superior race stuff. Watch me safely roll up half a million more, for another bunch of children, women and little fellows that I am now starting to make good. MOTOR CAR OVERTURNS

Down 30 Foot Embankment into Susquehanna River at Portlandville

FIVE OCCUPANTS OF CAR

All Residents of Schenectady Sink with Car in Water—All Miraculously Escape Without Serious Injury—Bec Causes the Trouble, Diverting Attention of Driver.

Five residents of Schenectady narrowly escaped serious injuries and possible death from drowning Sunday afternoon at about 1:30 o'clock when the car in which they were motoring along the state highway just north of Portlandville, headed for Milford, crashed through the guard rail fence and overturned down a 30 foot embankment, landing right side up in the Susquehanna river in water which completely submerged the car and estimated to be about 15 feet deep where the rear end of the car stood, with the front end two or three feet nearer the bank. Standing at the edge of the macadam and looking at the water the hundreds of visitors at the spot during the balance of the day could see the upper third of one wheel and the nickel top of one of the headlights and when the water was not too much rippled one could discern the black top which was up. To those who visited the scene it seemed little short of miraculous that some if not all of the party were not killed outright.

The car, a Buick Light Six touring, was owned and driven by Morris E. Blau of 238 McClellan street, Schenectady. With him in the car were Mrs. Blau and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Munsell and son, a lad of 13 years. The two men occupied the front seat. According to the story of the accident given by Mr. Blau after they had been rescued, a dog had alighted on the clothing of Mr. Munsell and he brushed it off, it landing on the knee of Mr. Blau. In attempting to crush it he thinks he must have given a turn to the steering wheel, for the car swerved and crashed into one of the posts of the guard fence. He is positive the car was moving moderately. When the second post gave way, he attempted to turn the front end back into the road, believing that he would be able to get back safely. He thinks the rear end dropped off the edge and then the car overturned once and landed as stated. All of the occupants remained in the car and settled with it in the water.

Down the river not 50 feet below where the car took the plunge was W. C. Merrill of Binghamton, who was spending the week-end at his summer home at Portlandville and who had been up the river fishing and was rowing down stream and had just passed over the very spot. He heard the first crash of the breaking fence and saw the car turn over into the river. Hastily discarding his trolling line, he backed his boat to the spot, although in the excitement he lost one oar and was handicapped. Nelson Layman, who was walking along the state road, saw the car overturn and calling to Ralph Brown, who was seated on his porch, they hurried to the scene. James Colwell reached there about the same time. These four were able to assist the four adults to the bank.

The Munsell had could swim and he was the first to appear on the surface and he pulled for the boat. Mr. Merrill insisting that he cling to the side and not attempt to climb in which he did. The men on the bank seized pieces of the broken guard rail and with Merrill assisting with his poles. Mr. and Mrs. Munsell were gotten to shore first. Mrs. Blau was evidently dazed and her husband was endeavoring to assist her, although he was making little progress. He was finally pushed along by Merrill to the end of one of the pieces of the rail, which he seized and then Mrs. Blau was caught after she had twice disappeared and she too was gotten close enough to the bank that the men there could pull her out. It was good work and it is believed from all that could be learned that all the help available was needed to save them all.

The unfortunate people were assisted to the home of Irving Blanchard, where they were provided with dry clothing and given restoratives, all suffering considerably from nervous shock. Dr. W. R. Seiber of Milford attended them. Mr. Blau had two gashes on the right side of his head two inches long and another over the right eye. His right leg was badly contused and swollen. Mrs. Blau received a bad blow on the nose, cutting a gash lengthwise of the bridge to the bone. She also was badly bruised and shocked. There were no indications of internal injuries to any in the party. The members of the party were conveyed to Collars in the Tunnick and Blanchard cars and they took the afternoon train for Albany, intending to secure a motor car there to convey them to their homes in Schenectady. They may well consider themselves fortunate to be alive today.

Before leaving Portlandville, Mr. Blau arranged with Guy B. McLaury to remove the car from the river, which will be attempted with the aid of tackle today. Mr. Blau is a foreman at the G. E. works and Mr. Munsell is employed there.

COAL SHORTAGE ON TROLLEY

Only Limited Supply on Hand but More Expected—Other Companies Short.

The coal shortage on the trolley line, to which reference was made in The Star of Friday, was temporarily alleviated by the receipt of one car of mediocre quality out of a shipment of six which were expected, and by the purchase of two cars in the open market at $12.50 per ton, exclusive of freight. Coal of this quality was formerly bought for about two dollars a ton. The coal on hand yesterday was probably sufficient to supply the plant for the day, and it is hoped but by no means certain that more will arrive today.

The Oneonta Light and Power company, owing to the recent rains, has been able to hoard a portion of its coal supply, but unless continued rains keep up the flow of water in the Susquehanna, it might not be long before it would be in like trouble. However, their situation is not such as to occasion uneasiness.

Three Divorce Actions Heard by Justice Kellogg on Saturday.

Despite the vacation season there appears no cessation of the demand for relief from unhappy marital relations. Justice Kellogg hearing three actions on Saturday, decrees being granted in each case. Burton of West Edmeston sought a decree from Lawrence Burton, Harry J. Mosher appearing for her. CHAUTAUQUA OPENS TODAY

First Lecture This Afternoon With Musical Prelude at 2:30 O'clock—Tent at Wilber Park, Lower Level—Course Tickets Now $2.75 Including War Tax.

Oneonta's Redpath Chautauqua opens today, the tent, now spread with everything ship shape, is located on the lower level in Wilber park, with much improved roads leading from Center street to the grounds and a foot bridge across the Oneonta creek at Spruce street, rendering the location accessible and sufficiently removed from the city's commercial activities to obviate any danger of distractions or interruptions by the noise of locomotives or trolley cars. It is all things considered, probably the best location available and probably will be the permanent location for the Chautauqua, which seems to have become a fixture in the city.

The Junior Chautauqua, for which many more tickets should be sold as the benefits are many, will be organized this morning at 9 o'clock. It will be supervised by Miss Gretchen Dillow and will meet each morning at the same hour.

The prelude this afternoon will be given by the Mordella Novelty company, which also gives the prelude this evening at 8 o'clock. E. T. Hagerman will be the lecturer of the afternoon and his subject will be "The Man with One Window." The lecture this evening will be given by Dr. Charles E. Barker, whose theme, "How to Live One Hundred Years," will interest all.

The local committee has sold all its 750 tickets. Course tickets will be on sale at the box office today at $2.50 plus the war tax. Single admission tickets for all the entertainments of the week aggregate over $8, hence season tickets are good economy. They are transferable within the owner's family.

Reports from other cities and villages are indicative of a strong, well balanced series of entertainments. It is stated that Miss McLaren, who was absent from the circuit last week owing to the death of a brother, will keep all engagements this week and be in Oneonta on Friday evening. She is one of the features of the course.

MARRIAGES.

Pendleton-Eberhardt.

Friends in Oneonta have received announcement of the marriage on Monday, July 5, of L. Stanton Pendleton of Buffalo to Miss Irene B. Eberhardt of Oneonta. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock in the evening in the presence of the immediate families of groom and bride at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Eberhardt, of 69 Hamilton avenue, in the latter city. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father, Dr. Charles S. Pendleton of Oneonta, the bridesmaid being Miss Dorothy Eberhardt, a sister of the bride, and the best man Charles Nathan Pendleton of this city, who is a brother of the groom. The bride was attractively gowned in white silk and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid's dress was a lavender organdie, and her bouquet was of pink roses. The house decorations were of dark and pink roses.

There were many beautiful and valuable wedding gifts, among them a silver service from the Johns-Manville company, in the place of which the bride had been employed. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton departed on a wedding trip, whose objective was Buffalo, where they are pleasantly located in apartments at Carlton Court, Court and Main streets, that city.

The bride, as above stated, had for some time been a valued employee of the Johns-Manville company. She was a popular young lady of Oneonta and will be pleasantly remembered in Oneonta, where earlier this season she spent some time at the Pendleton residence. The groom is a graduate of Hamilton college, class of '17 and since has been employed with the New York Telephone company, at first in the inspection department in New York and Brooklyn and since May 1 as traffic engineer in the offices at Buffalo. The numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton, like in Oneonta, Yonkers and Buffalo, join in hearty congratulations.

CROWD APPLAUDS CONCERT.

First Sunday Entertainment of Season Given by City Band.

The first Sunday band concert of the season was given yesterday afternoon on the lawn of Oneonta's new Huntington Memorial library and attracted a large crowd of Sunday promenaders and motorists. The City band, under the competent direction of James Keeton Jr. gave an hour's entertainment beginning at 4 o'clock and plainly showed the ability of that well-known musician, and of the members of the band, to play music that people like to hear. They were generously applauded by the spectators, and the approval would undoubtedly have been much more manifest had it been known that the "band boys" were giving the concert through their own generosity, the concert being independent of the city appropriation for such purposes.

Following is the program of the concert.

March—The Banqueters. (G. E. Holmes)
Overture—Gypsy Queen. (King.)
Cornet Solo—Dear Little Boy of Mine. (E. R. Bail.)
March—Royal Scotch Highlanders. (King.)
Selection from The Magic Melody. (Homburg.)
Characteristic—Trombone Blues. (Jewell.)
Overture—Spice and Span. (Jewell.)
March—Revelation. (Chambers.)

CIVIL SERVICE MAKES WAY FOR SALVATION

Civil Service Building, Washington, D. C., Recently Purchased by the Salvation Army. (Insert) Colonel William Peart, Chief Secretary in the United States.

THE Civil Service Building at Washington, D. C., in which more than a million and a half persons have been examined for government positions, has been purchased by the Salvation Army. It will become the headquarters for all the Salvation Army activities in that district, and in addition will probably contain a home for working girls with hotel accommodations, bowling alleys, club rooms and sleeping quarters.

There is no state which does not contain thousands who will recall the historic old Civil Service Building, which is located at 8th and E streets, Northwest. It became the property of the government on the recommendation of Theodore Roosevelt when he resigned as Civil Service Director in 1895.

Originally erected in the interest of the Post Office Department, for the purpose of housing the Money Order Division, it has also contained the Bureau of Mines together with several branches of the War Department and the Public Health Service. Recently the Civil Commission outgrew the building and moved to larger quarters.

The Salvationists will move into the new building in a few weeks. If present plans are put through this will add one more to the total of 57 hotels maintained by the Salvationists in this country in which accommodations and service are furnished free or at nominal prices.

In these Salvation Army institutions, which are distributed throughout the country, more than 400,000 meals are furnished in a twelve-month, while the night lodgings supplied run close to a million and a half.

According to Colonel William Peart, Chief Secretary of the Salvation Army in the United States, the acquisition of this new property will enable the Salvation Army to make a needed extension of its activities in the nation's capital.

QUEEN MARY IN SHREW'D DEAL

Convinces U. S. Business Man of Roumania's Stability.

WILL GET NEW LOCOMOTIVES

Agents From Other Countries Demanded Cold Hard Cash, but Queen Put Up Such Good Argument That American Agreed to Take Payment in Roumania's Bonds—Queen Has Been Over Every Foot of Country and Knows Its Resources.

Queen Mary of Roumania displayed her business ability and her faith in her country by putting through an important deal in locomotives not long ago. The Roumanian railways were in sad need of the new engines. There were American, French and English agents there to sell locomotives, but for money only. None of them had enough faith in Roumania to sell them anything except for cold hard cash.

Then the president of an American concern who had been selling locomotives to Poland came to Roumania. An interview was arranged between him and the queen, who presented such a strong argument on the future of her country and its resources that the hard-headed business American agreed to furnish locomotives and rolling stock and to take in payment Roumania's national bonds.

Knows Her Land.

The queen believes in Roumania and she knows how to convince others because she has been over every foot of its ground. During the days that she was princess she traveled by train and by automobile and on horseback until she has come to know all of the resources of her country and a great many of its people.

Here is what she said to the Associated Press correspondent about her country: "The queen of a small country! Those who are accustomed to see rulers of a great land can little understand what it means. It means work and anxiety and hope, and a great toiling for small results. But the field is large, and if the heart is willing, great is the work."

For all her beauty and fine clothes, the queen is not afraid of dirt. This fact is shown in her boundless admiration for the dusty plains and dusty roads of her country. One day during the German occupation of Roumania she was riding along one of the dusty roads of Bessarabia, when she saw and picked up an ill clad little orphan girl that was part of a group of refugees, but seemed to belong to nobody in particular. The queen gathered up the child in her arms and took it home thinking later to find its mother. To date the mother has not been found, so the queen has adopted the little girl as a member of her own family.

Likes American Girl.

Another girl that the queen has almost adopted is Miss Anne Shaw of Philadelphia, who has been in Roumania with the American Red Cross for more than a year. Miss Shaw came to know the queen through her Red Cross work, and then, especially Princess Elizabeth with whom she has struck up a fast friendship. The queen heartily approves of the friendship, and when Miss Shaw is about the house, the queen treats her as a younger sister.

Queen Mary is a good judge of human nature. When she receives a stranger she puts him through a sort of third degree. She places him in a chair facing a lighted window, whereas she sits with her back to the light and if the stranger meets with her approval, as a person to be trusted, she then is apt to remark:

"I think that light is too strong for your eyes," and asks him or her to change the seat.

AIR HIGHWAY OVER AND'S BRITISH PLAN

Mountains Not High Enough to Interfere With Scheme, Experts Say.

Establishment of an aerial route from the Pacific to the Amazon as a means of surmounting difficulties of road travel among the Andes is advocated by G. M. Dyott, until recently a squadron commander of the British Royal naval air service.

"There is no serious difficulty in the way, so far as the scheme's practicability is concerned," Mr. Dyott told the Royal Geographical society. "We have heard of the great height of the Andes, but there are low altitudes at which they may be crossed. One of the Andes ridges can be negotiated at a height of 7,000 feet, but there is another rising to 15,000 feet."

"Peru," he continued, "is peculiarly suitable for aerial traffic. Aerial highways will undoubtedly play a large part in the future development of that country. It is of importance that rapid communication should be established between the interior and the coast, and in order to do this the airplane must come to the rescue."

Discussing the difficulty of traveling by road, Mr. Dyott said that it took him five days to travel from one part of the Andes to another, whereas the airplane would cover the distance in 15 minutes, and in another stage of the journey it took him exactly a week to travel a distance which would be negotiated by the airplane in 30 minutes.

Mules Show "Horse Sense."

Owensboro, Ky.—G. W. Potts, farmer, owes his life to his mules. Uprooted by the wind, a giant maple crashed across the seat of Potts' wagon. The mules saw what was coming, bolted and jerked Potts out of the seat to time.

DEATHS.

Robert Carr.

Robert Carr, a native of Ireland but for the past 39 years a resident of Oneonta, during most of which time he was employed in the local D. & H. shops, died Sunday afternoon at 3:35 o'clock at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Lynch, 1 Liberty street, after a five weeks' illness due to a complication of diseases. Up to that period he had been in good health for a man of his years and had been steadily at his work.

Deceased was born in Ireland on November 15, 1841, and in young manhood married Bridget Galligan. In the 90's, the Carrs left the country of their birth and came to the United States, where he went to work on the D. & H. and had since been employed there. In 1901, Mrs. Carr died and for most of the period since then Mr. Carr had been living with his children here. He was a man held in high respect by all his fellow-workmen and neighbors and he had a kind and cheery word for all. His passing will be noted with regret by not only all his immediate relatives but also by the employees of the D. & H. shops.

Mr. Carr was a devoted member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church and he never found greater joy than when attending the services held there. He was also a member of the Holy Name society of that church.

Mr. Carr is survived by three daughters, Mrs. John Lynch, Mrs. James Casey and Mrs. Richard Daley, all of Oneonta; three sons, Patrick Carr of Albany and James and John Carr of Oneonta, and twenty grandchildren and four great grandchildren. A brother, Thomas Carr, is believed to be living in Australia.

Funeral services for Mr. Carr will be held Wednesday morning, from the house at 9 o'clock and St. Mary's church at 9:30. Rev. Father William D. Noonan will officiate and burial will be in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Thomas Henry Clough.

Thomas Henry Clough died early Sunday morning at his home at 2 Parish avenue. Mr. Clough had suffered for some time with cancer of the stomach, but it was only for the two weeks previous to his death that his suffering was acute. The funeral will be held at his late home on Wednesday at 2 p. m., Rev. Dr. James C. Russell of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Interment at Plains.

Mr. Clough was born on December 5, 1855, at Paterson, N. J., very shortly after his parents, Thomas and Mary Ann (Dickinson) Clough, took up their abode in that city after moving there

A LETTER FOR WOMEN

From a Woman Whose Serious Illness Was Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Garnett, Kan.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a complete nervous breakdown following the birth of my oldest child. I got up too soon which caused serious female trouble. I was so weak that I was not able to be on my feet but very little and could not do my housework at all.

I had a bad pain in my left side and it would pain terribly if I stepped off a curbstone. One day one of your booklets was thrown in the yard and I read every word in it. There were so many who had been helped by your medicine that I wanted to try it and my husband went to town and got me a bottle. It seemed as though I felt relief after the second dose, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles and by that time I was as well as I could wish. About a year later I gave birth to a ten pound boy, and have had two more children since and my health has been fine. If I ever have trouble of any kind I am going to take your medicine for I give it all the praise for my good health. I always recommend your medicine whenever I can."

—Mrs. Eva E. Shay, Garnett, Kansas.

from their former home in England. In 1882 he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Jordan of Binghamton and since that time had made his home in Oneonta, except for about eight years, two of which were spent in Mexico and six in San Antonio, Texas.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Thomas C. O'Connell of Donora, Pa.; a son, Walter Clough of this city; a granddaughter, Mary Ellen Clough, and by three brothers, John W. Clough and Richard Clough of Susquehanna, Pa., and Joshua Clough of Eagle Pass, Texas. While a resident of this city, Mr. Clough had been employed at the local D. & H. roundhouse as a machinist and was a member of the Machinists' union. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church and active in many public interests.

GIRLS TURNED BURGLARS

Children Ransack Many Homes for Jewels and Clothing.

Police detectives in Portland, Ore., recently placed under arrest three girls in short dresses whose desire for jewels and fine clothes led them to become burglars.

Two of the girls were caught in the act of ransacking a home during the absence of the family, and the third was implicated in other thefts by the two who were captured red-handed. The girls were Margaret Davis, fourteen years old; Gladys Wyatt, fifteen, and Mildred Scott, aged fourteen.

Mexico No Longer Haven for "Reds."

Wholesale arrests of foreign bolsheviks in several of the larger cities have been made by order of the Mexican provisional government. This activity is regarded as indicating that the radicals who enjoyed Carranza's favor are no longer popular in Mexico.
